Tutor - Gilli Theokritoff
10.00-4.00pm £30.00

Using fabric pieces and wadding we will stitch to create quilted panels, we will then bind and insert a zip, sew up the sides, and hey presto - charming purse to hold all your sewing things, knitting needles, etc. A variety of sizes and finishes are possible and it is a chance to explore free-machining, or twin needles, or just to have fun with the embroidery stitches on your machine. The bags make delightful gifts if you can bear to part with them! An equipment list will be provided.

Tuesday 8th & Wednesday 9th (2 day course)

'Crash' with International Textile Tutor Isobell Hall

10.00-4.00pm £100.00

On this workshop we will work with S500 Crash. This crushed, manmade transparent fabric, made by Vilene, can be transformed into an exciting stand alone fabric suitable for bags and jewellery. Use Isobel's technique for making this into a robust fabric, the resulting fabric will be coloured using mixed media techniques so that each persons work will be unique. The resulting fabric will be made into a bag and bangle. It is envisaged that the bangle will be completed and the bag well on its way to completion, depending upon further embellishment. Each person will decide whether to make a clutch bag or a bag with handles. Equipment list provided.

Saturday 5th & Sunday 6th (2 day course)

Cyanotypes on Fabric

Tutor - Ruth Brown
10.00-4.00pm £100.00

This is an introduction to the wonderful techniques of cyanotyping on fabric; a method from 1841 for producing beautiful, detailed white photographic images on a Prussian blue background. We will cover preparing the light sensitive fabric, producing photograms (printing flowers, foliage, lace and many other objects). We will also touch on tinting the final image. All in all a blue and white extravaganza! An equipment list will be provided.

Numbers are limited for this class so please book early.

Saturday 19th November Textiles Teaching - Back to Basics
 Tutor - Julie Boyd 00-4.00pm £175.00 +VAT
 Do you teach textiles but lack confidence with the practical skills required to teach it especially to GCSE and A level? Would you like to develop your knowledge of construction and decorative techniques, as well as your understanding of commercial patterns and how to make a range of basic products? This course focuses on equipping teachers, support staff and technicians with basic practical skills to help them feel confident at teaching textiles at Key Stage 3 and 4. As well as developing your knowledge of basic skills and techniques you will learn how to help students choose the most appropriate method for the product and fabric they are using. You will also learn about the 'must know' theory needed to support the learning of your students when answering exam questions on technical skills, action planning and areas related to making a product. There will be the chance to produce technique boards and other resources that will support teaching and learning back in your classroom.

The course will include a section on ideas on how to approach Controlled Assessment and revision as well as ways of raising the profile of the subject in your school. You will take away resources you can use straight away to impact on teaching and learning in your classroom.

Meet Your Tutor

Rosemary Coles

Course Co-ordinator / Studio Manager

Rosemary is responsible for the smooth running of the training rooms and organising courses. If you purchase a sewing machine, then you will meet Rosemary when you attend your free owners course.

Lynn Vale has City & Guild qualifications in fashion, design and teaching. She has worked in many areas including bridal, soft furnishing and couture, where she worked under contract for Zandra Rhodes and Jean Muir.

Liz Hanbury started out as a Studio Customer! Now, fifteen years on, she is a valuable part of the Studio teaching team. She generously shares her wide knowledge, encouraging everyone to enjoy their sewing and creativity to the limits. Look out for Liz's software classes on page 13 and her projects featured in Flair Magazine!

Jan Merryweather's background is in Soft Furnishings; in 2005 she set up her own curtain/blind making business, which is still going strong. Jan sells her bags and other crafts at a variety of craft fairs and galleries. Having completed a variety of City & Guild courses Jan decided she wanted to pass on her skills & inspire others, so completed a teaching qualification.

Emma Learoyd studied Textile Design at university, then worked in the retail industry for 13 years. She has now found herself drawn to her first love Textiles. In between looking after two children Emma designs accessories and stationery with an emphasis on embroidery. Emma has a passion for colour and texture and hopes to share this with you when you attend her workshops.

Suzanne Mallabone is a costume jewellery designer. Suzanne began to teach herself jewellery making, subsequently successfully completing several courses including a teaching qualification. Suzanne teaches crafts to children with learning difficulties and recently delivered a bracelet workshop, in which Dame Kelly Holmes attended.

Kathleen Laurel - Sage freelance textile artist, designer and enthusiastic embroiderer. Her work ranges from conventional items through relief to exciting three dimensional pieces. Kathleen produces a wide range of embroidered structures which include floral vases and fashion accessories in the form of bags and unique jewellery.

Gilly Meeks is an active member of the Quilters Guild and a qualified Quilt Judge, judging on several occasions at Festival of Quilts. Gilly's love of quilting both contemporary and traditional is reflected in her fascination of techniques and the making process.

Gilli Theokritoff is an experienced quilter and teacher and has won awards for her contemporary quilts. She is keen to encourage new quilters with her lively and engaging classes. Gilli teaches around the country and occasionally exhibits her work.

Clare Alderson has been teaching felt making for three years, her classes are generally aimed at a beginners and intermediate level. Clare finds that starting with basic techniques is important as a basis for building confidence and quite nice as a refresher for those who have felted before. She is passionate about felt making and loves passing on her knowledge to inspire others to create something unique.

Erica Thomson has enjoyed using her 3 machines - sewing, knitting and overlocker to make clothes and soft furnishings for as long as she can remember. Erica enjoys many other crafts and in particular, combining different crafts. She has published her own books and patterns.
